Whereas, to accomplish their objectives, surveyors use elements of engineering, physics, mathematics, astronomy, law, and history; and

Whereas, surveying is recognized as one of the oldest known professions, and throughout the history of our country, land surveyors have included many political and community leaders, including several U.S. presidents; and

Whereas, many services are now provided through the use of sophisticated surveying equipment and techniques, including satellite-borne remote sensing devices and automated positioning, measuring, recording, and plotting equipment; and
