Executive Summary:

Since 2016 the Department of Health Services has received grant funding totaling $850,000 from Community Partners for the California Accountable Communities for Health Initiative to support the transformation of Health Action into a local Accountable Community for Health. The Department has been awarded an additional $200,000 to continue this work through 2021. This item requests approval to execute a grant agreement with Community Partners to accept $200,000 in revenue through August 2021. This funding will enable Health Action to continue implementation of the innovative local Accountable Communities for Health model, including establishing a wellness fund, advancing racial equity, expanding data sharing, and reducing the number of preventable heart attacks and strokes through a portfolio of strategies that links local health care systems, providers, and health plans to public health, community, and social services organizations serving diverse communities in Sonoma County.

This item also requests approval to 1) adjust the Department's fiscal year 2019-2020 budget to reflect receipt of grant revenue and associated expenditures, and 2) extend the term of an existing full-time time-limited Health Program Manager position through August 31, 2021.

Discussion:

California Accountable Communities for Health Initiative was established by The California Endowment, Blue Shield of California Foundation, Kaiser Permanente, and Sierra Health Foundation to lead efforts to modernize the health system and build healthier communities. The initiative aims to improve the health system of entire communities, not just individual patients, and will result in greater health equity. To realize this vision, California Accountable Communities for Health Initiative is utilizing a new model known as Accountable Communities for Health. An Accountable Communities for Health is a groundbreaking vehicle for collaboration across multiple sectors to address the most pressing health issues facing our communities. It brings together clinical providers with public health departments, social service agencies, nonprofit organizations, business groups, and others, in a collective effort to make a community healthier.

By coordinating and aligning activities to address particular health issues in a community, an Accountable Communities for Health can achieve meaningful and lasting improvements in individual and population health. The goals are: 1) improve community-wide health outcomes and reduce disparities with regard to identified health needs; 2) reduce costs associated with health care and, potentially, non-health sectors; and 3) develop financing mechanisms through a self-sustaining wellness fund, to sustain the Accountable Communities for Health and provide ongoing investments in prevention and system-wide efforts to improve population health.

The Department of Health Services was originally selected as one of six innovative communities in California to receive $250,000 in 2016 to support the development of a local Accountable Communities for Health structure and model. The Department was awarded an additional $600,000 over two additional years to advance this work through 2019. The proposed grant agreement with Community Partners provides an additional $200,000 to continue local Accountable Communities for Health efforts through 2021. Community Partners is a Los Angeles-based non-profit contracted to manage the California Accountable Communities for Health Initiative grantmaking process and serve as the administrative home for the initiative. For over 20 years Community Partners has worked with individuals, groups, foundations, and other institutions to create new non-profits, establish coalitions, and manage major initiatives such as the California Accountable Communities for Health Initiative.

Using Health Action's existing multi-sector partnerships and current work as a foundation for the Sonoma Accountable Communities for Health, the Department of Health Services and Health Action are building off the success of Health Action's Committee for Healthcare Improvement's "Hearts of Sonoma" initiative to focus on cardiovascular disease, as it remains the County's most prevalent chronic health condition and a leading cause of death.

In the first three years of the California Accountable Communities for Health Initiative efforts, Health Action made significant progress in advancing the initiative's goals. Partners established the shared goal of reducing the number of preventable heart attacks and strokes and developed a comprehensive strategy across community and clinical settings to achieve the long-term goal of reducing preventable heart attacks and strokes. Organizations aligned their existing work and collaborated to develop and implement newly identified interventions as part of a cohesive portfolio. Aggregated blood pressure data to date indicate a 20 percent overall improvement in hypertension control since 2014 for adult patients of Hearts of Sonoma County clinical partner organizations. Though the initial focus of the California Accountable Communities for Health Initiative was addressing cardiovascular disease, the work is in service of the long-term goal of applying the Accountable Communities for Health model as a framework for all of Health Action's work to address social determinants of health and other root causes of health inequities. Health Action has made significant progress in expanding the Accountable Communities for Health model to all of its efforts in the last few years. Health Action chapters designed a community engagement guide for authentically engaging community members and developing community leaders. They subsequently hosted a daylong training for over 100 community members to implement these strategies. Health Action formed a Wellness Fund Development Team with the goal of launching a wellness fund to support Health Action priorities.

In the next two years, Health Action will continue to focus on implementing the following core elements of the Accountable Communities for Health model: sustainable financing, racial equity, data sharing, and the portfolio of interventions. Health Action will establish a wellness fund to support sustainable financing for community health priorities. Health Action will address racial disparities in health outcomes by implementing racial equity trainings and applying racial equity tools to its work. Health Action will establish a data dashboard to track shared outcomes. Hearts of Sonoma County clinical and community partners will continue to expand the portfolio of strategies to reduce preventable heart attacks and strokes and Cradle to Career will develop a portfolio of strategies to address early childhood education.

Staffing Request to Support the California Accountable Communities for Health Initiative: At the September 13, 2016 Board meeting, the Board approved one new full-time limited-term Health Program Manager position to support the California Accountable Communities for Health Initiative.
